

Biography Lisa Benanto

Lisa Benanto is the funniest person she knows.

She often sings in the shower.

She always has created things, something, anything. Latch hooking was a favorite pass time in her tween years and this quickly blossomed into full art production. Some habits are hard to break, and she never stopped creating. Mediums and materials often change by year, decade, inspiration and or intention.

Lisa graduated from, the now closed, College of New Rochelle with a BS in Art Education and a concentration in graphic art and art history. She received her master's degree from The College of Saint Rose, with a MS in Art Education and a concentration in photography. During the years that followed receiving these degrees, she has taken numerous seminars and workshops. Included in this category is , Art in New England at Bennington College offered through Mass Art. During these summer sessions she was introduced to the plein air painting experience.
